

PLANNING, DRAFT RESIDENTIAL DESIGN CODES

321. Hon C L Edwardes to the Minister for Planning and Infrastructure

I refer the Minister to the Draft Residential Design Codes (“R-Codes”) released for public comment in October 2000, and ask -

- (a) was the closing date of the 25 January 2001 for public submissions extended, if so, to what date;
- (b) how many public submissions were received;
- (c) who is analysing the public submissions;
- (d) will the public submissions be released publicly at the same time as the approval of the R-Codes;
- (e) was the closing date for formal submissions by Local Councils extended, if so, to what date;
- (f) how many submissions were received from Local Councils;
- (g) who is analysing these submissions; and
- (h) will the Local Council submissions be released publicly, at the same time as the approval of the R-Codes?

Ms MacTIERNAN replied:

- (a) 28 February 2001.
- (b) 111.
- (c) The Ministry for Planning has analysed submissions under the direction and guidance of the R-Codes Review Committee.
- (d) I am yet to receive the recommendations of the Western Australian Planning Commission or the R-Codes Committee on the draft R-Codes. I believe that further public discussion is required on the R-Codes prior to finalisation.
- (e) Yes. 28 February 2001.
- (f) 40
- (g) The Ministry for Planning has analysed submissions under the direction and guidance of the R-Codes Review Committee.
- (h) See (d) above.
