5C. Terms used

In this Part — explosives order means a restraining order that requires the person bound by the order to give up possession of any explosives or explosives licence.

5D. Giving up possession of explosives

- (1) This regulation applies when an explosives order is served on a restrained person who is in possession of an explosive or explosives licence.
- (2) The restrained person must give the explosive or explosives licence to the Chief Dangerous Goods Officer —
 - (a) as soon as is reasonably practicable after the explosives order is served; and
 - (b) in any event, within 36 hours, or any longer period specified in the explosives order, after the explosives order is served.

5E. Dealing with explosives surrendered (Act s. 14A) or seized (Act s. 62E)

- (1) An explosive or explosives licence given to the Chief Dangerous Goods Officer under section 14A of the Act, or seized under section 62E(1AA) of the Act, is to be held in safe custody by the Chief Dangerous Goods Officer until —
 - (a) the requirement to give up possession of the explosive or explosives licence is removed from the explosives order; or
 - (b) the explosives order ceases to be in force; or
 - (c) the explosive or explosives licence may otherwise lawfully be disposed of.
- (2) Before returning an explosive or explosives licence, the Chief Dangerous Goods Officer must have regard to the matters referred to in the Dangerous Goods Safety (Explosives) Regulations 2007 regulation 164 as if the restrained person were an applicant for an explosives licence.
- (3) If an explosives licence which is being held by the Chief Dangerous Goods Officer has not been reclaimed within 1 month after an event referred to in subregulation (1)(a) or (b), the Chief Dangerous Goods Officer may regard the restrained person as having surrendered the explosives licence under the Dangerous Goods Safety (Explosives) Regulations 2007 regulation 170.
