

My name is _____ and I have been prescribed medicinal cannabis for my ADHD since January 2021. Mentally it's saved my life a million times over. It's made dealing with life so much easier, it opens up natural pathways that my brain does open by itself, it allows me to think! I have replaced opioids with the natural path and I feel so much better!

With family at first they were concerned but after seeing how it effected me, they have been nothing but supportive and I've actually got my dad looking into being prescribed under the DVA aswell and he initially hated that I was prescribed but he has seen how it has worked for me and he wants to give it a shot too!

It has 1 big downfall. Not being able to work in the mining industry has definatly affected me. It's an industry I love and it's stupid that I'm allowed to take prescribed opioids on site but not my cbd oil thats infused with 1%thc in 25ml of cbd.

I currently have a fair work case against a company that has terminated my employment pecifically due to my disability and my medication!
