Although this is usually considered a good factor, social media has significantly impacted the social standards of a person and what they eat. Children being unable to get food provided for them in their daily lifestyle is not great however awareness of how it is okay to be eating larger amounts of food or maybe even eating a few treats occasionally is needed for them to be reminded and brought to attention. Younger people see themselves to stop eating because of what they may think society might think of them. An understanding of a person's self-esteem of eating should be spoken up about in school and where other else they may need to hear this information.

B) Not bad because if i dont then ill not put to much pressure on my body. C) Nope	Not many days	For me, it is not really difficult because I am actually fine if there is not any food because I always think of those who are suffering more so I don't feel that bad if I don't get food.	No- This does not apply to me;	Like before, it doesn't matter to me at all if I don't get food for like a day, even if it isn't good, I am taught to appreciate what I am given as it always seems to be a gift to me if I am still alive.	No	No	Not at all	Not Sure	It's people's lives, if they don't want to eat that much let them but if people can't really eat a good meal or a meal at all, make them more confident to be honest about their life as it's very difficult to admit that you are suffering because you they are scared to be a burden to those who want to be helpful.
