Good even

I wish to state our position on the decision that you will be making on behalf of our Airbnb accommodation. My wife and myself depend on this income to support ourselves we are too young to receive a pension and I work part time along with my spouse we have no other income and very little super we do not wish to use the centre link system due to our morals we pride ourselves on giving visitors to our Airbnb the best experience they can have at an excellent price we also point out where the best places to go to which helps our tourism industry.

I know as a 7 generation Australian that the cost to holiday in our own country has become too expensive and a large cost of that is the greed of the motel and other accommodation businesses.

We welcome people from all around the world and always point them to all the attractions in and around our region while we are doing this the visitors are spending money in our community.

I do regret that a group of people will be making a decision and may have the law changed due to a group of greedy businesses, like them we pay rates taxes and declare all our income I believe that if it's not broken then it does not need fixing.

Kind Regards

Marcella & Tony Lynch
