

I feel so much for all those parents who were forced into adopting their children, this is such a travesty. I myself, in the 1970's, was strongly coerced into adopting my own daughter out (as an unmarried mother) before she was even born. They made me feel that I would have done the wrong thing, by my daughter, to keep her & they made me feel worthless. I'm so glad I was strong enough that I didn't submit to their stand over tactics.
