

Contact details for the bus driver including name and telephone number should be given to parents as a matter of course. It is very distressing when a child is missing and you cannot contact the bus driver to find out whether they got on the bus, got off the bus or otherwise.

Duty of care procedures should also be reviewed as we have had young children disembark the bus when their parents are not there to collect them.