upon tabling of Committee's Report

19/2/14

2nd February 2014

Dear Sirs & madam,

By all means get rid of forces make their skins into fur coats. The same with rabbits (even if people object)

They are the only two pests that were introduced to Australia

But other animals that can run wild are goats, pigs, camels horses. Most other animals people consider them to be too valuable to allow them to run wild but I feel farmers should ^{allow} one or two animals to the acre not to graze the paddocks bare. In other words they should care about the land.

Yours sincerely
Mrs Louise Grayson
