Youngest MPs in WA

Edwin Wilkie Corboy: 'baby of the House'

The youngest person elected to the Parliament of Western Australia was Edwin Wilkie Corboy. He was also the youngest Labor member elected to the WA Parliament when he won the seat of Yilgarn on 12 March 1921, aged 24 years. Edwin Wilkie Corboy was born 24 August 1897 in Melbourne, Victoria, the son of Michael Corboy, malster, railway worker and iron worker, and Isobel Amelia Wilson. His family moved to WA when he was young and he was educated at the Perth Boys School. He began his working life as a junior clerk in accounts at the Water Supply Department in 1912. He enlisted with the 1st Australian Imperial Force in 1915 and fought at Gallipoli and France with the 28th and 70th Battalions. He was wounded twice and discharged in 1917, the same year he started work as a clerk with the Lands Department and unsuccessfully contested the seat of Subiaco in the Western Australian Parliament. He was only aged 22 years when he was elected to the federal seat of Swan in a by-election on 26 October 1918. The following year he married Hannah Tobin and they had one son. Hannah died in 1942 and he remarried in 1949 to Dora Adelaide Daly (nee Dawes). From 1921 to 1930 he was the MLA for Yilgarn and from 1930 to 1933 the MLA for Yilgarn–Coolgardie in WA. After 1933 he was a works clerk and in 1936 he worked for the Commonwealth Department of Social Services. During World War II he was in the Intelligence Section, 3rd Australian Corps and the 2nd Australian Imperial Force. After the war he worked as a civil servant again. Corboy died in East Perth on 6 August 1950 and is buried at Karrakatta Cemetery in WA.

Born in 1975, Donna Faragher is the youngest Liberal woman elected to either House of the Parliament of WA. She was 29 years, 8 months and 10 days when she commenced her term in Parliament. She is also the youngest woman to have been appointed as a government minister in WA. She was appointed the Minister for Environment in 2008.

Youngest Premier: 'Happy Jack'

John Scaddan, commonly known as 'Happy Jack' was the youngest Premier of Western Australia. He was born in 1876 in Moonta, South Australia, the son of Richard Scaddan, miner and Jennifer Scaddan, nee Smitheram. He was educated at Woodside Primary School, South Australia and from 13 years at Eaglehawk Primary School in Victoria. Later he worked in the mines, attended the Bendigo School of Mines and gained an engine driver's certificate. He arrived in Western Australia in 1896. He worked on a steam-engine at a goldfields mine and joined the Goldfields Amalgamated Certified Engine-Drivers' Union. In 1900 he married Elizabeth Fawcner in Boulder but she tragically died of Bright's disease in 1902. He remarried in 1904 to Henrietta Edwards and they had a son and daughter. As a Labour member, Scaddan won the seat of Ivanhoe on 24 June 1904 which he held until 3 October 1911. Scaddan was secretary of the Australia Labour Federation (WA) from 1906 to 1911 and he helped organise the building of the Perth Trades Hall. He was Leader of the Opposition from 1910. When Labor won with a landslide at the October 1911 election, Scaddan, aged 35 years, became the youngest Premier in WA. He was also treasurer. At the 1916 election he won the seat of Brown Hill-Ivanhoe. Following Scaddan's resignation from the Australian Labor Party, due to a fight over conscription in 1917, he formed the National Labor Party in WA. He represented Albany from 1919 to 1924 and was Minister for Railways, Mines, Industries, Forests and Police. In 1920 he changed membership from the National Party to the Country Party. From 1923 to 1924 he was a member of the Ministerial Country Party and finally a member of the Nationalists. Scaddan managed Westralian Motors in Perth from 1924 to 1927 and then became a stock, farm and estate agent. In 1930 he won the seat of Maylands which he held until 1933. During this time he was Minister for Railways, Mines, Police, Forests and Industry. Scaddan was made a Companion of the Order of St Michael and St George (CMG) in 1923. He was a Methodist Sunday school superintendent, freemason and a keen footballer when he was young. Scaddan suddenly died of a cerebral haemorrhage on 21 November 1934 at Mt Lawley, WA.
