

DIRECTORS' LIABILITY REFORM BILL 2022 (WA)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

Overview of Bill

The Directors' Liability Reform Bill 2022 proposes to reduce and standardise offences in the Western Australian statute book which impose personal criminal liability on officers of bodies corporate for offences committed by those bodies corporate, where those officers have failed to take reasonable steps to prevent the body corporate's offending.

Part 1 – Preliminary

This Part deals with preliminary and commencement matters.

Clause 1 Short title

This clause provides that the Bill, once enacted, will be known as the Directors' Liability Reform Act 2022.

Clause 2 Commencement

This clause provides that the Act will come into operation on varying dates, as outlined in the clause.

Clause 3 Further provisions relating to commencement

This clause provides that, for subsections 2, 3 and 4, commencement day means the day after the day on which the Act receives Royal Assent.

Different commencement provisions have been drafted in clauses 2 and 3 for different Divisions within the Bill because some parts of Acts being amended have not yet been proclaimed. The Bill must reflect the status of legislation at the time that the Bill is prepared, which has resulted in the drafting of alternative commencement provisions in this clause.

Part 2 – The Criminal Code amended

Clause 4 Act amended

This clause provides that the Bill amends The Criminal Code.

Clause 5 Part I Chapter 6 inserted

This clause inserts a new Chapter into Part I of The Criminal Code. The new Chapter 6 contains sections 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42 and 43.

Proposed section 37(1) provides that the Chapter contains a set of standard provisions (sections 39, 40 and 41) that set out certain circumstances in which directors and other officers of a body corporate can incur criminal liability as a result of an offence by the body corporate.

Proposed section 37(2) provides that only one of sections 39, 40 and 41 can apply to an offence.

Proposed section 38 provides that in this Chapter, 'officer', in relation to a body corporate, has the meaning given in section 9 of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth).

Proposed section 39 provides for the liability of officers for corporate offences where the onus is on the prosecution to prove reasonable steps were not taken by the officer to prevent the commission of the offence.

Proposed section 39(1) provides that the section applies to an offence only if a provision of The Criminal Code, or of another written law, expressly provides that it applies to the offence.

Proposed section 39(2) provides that if a body corporate is guilty of an offence to which section 39 applies, an officer of the body corporate is also guilty of the offence if the officer failed to take all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence by the body corporate. It is intended that, if the prosecution does not establish that there were reasonable step(s) an officer could have taken but did not take, the officer should be acquitted.

Proposed section 39(3) prescribes the factors to which a court must have regard in determining whether things done or omitted to be done by the officer constitute reasonable steps. These are:

- a) what the officer knew, or ought to have known, about the commission of the offence by the body corporate; and
- b) whether the officer was in a position to influence the conduct of the body corporate in relation to the commission of the offence; and
- c) any other relevant matter.

Proposed section 40 provides for the liability of officers for corporate offences where the onus is on the prosecution to prove that all reasonable steps were not taken, if evidence suggesting such steps were taken is adduced by or on behalf of the officer.

Proposed section 40(1) provides that the section applies to an offence only if a provision of The Criminal Code, or of another written law, expressly provides that it applies to the offence.

Proposed section 40(2) provides that if a body corporate is guilty of an offence to which section 40 applies, an officer of the body corporate is also guilty of the offence unless the officer took all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence by the body corporate.

Proposed section 40(3) provides that if the officer adduces evidence that suggests a reasonable possibility that the officer took all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence by the body corporate, the prosecutor bears the onus of proving the contrary. The officer therefore bears an evidential burden. It is intended that, if the officer adduces that evidence, and the prosecution does not prove that there were reasonable step(s) the officer could have taken but did not take, the officer should be acquitted.

Proposed section 40(4) prescribes the factors to which a court must have regard in determining whether things done or omitted to be done by the officer constitute reasonable steps. These are:

- a) what the officer knew, or ought to have known, about the commission of the offence by the body corporate; and
- b) whether the officer was in a position to influence the conduct of the body corporate in relation to the commission of the offence; and
- c) any other relevant matter.

Proposed section 41 provides for the liability of officers for corporate offences where the onus is on the officer to prove that all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence were taken.

Proposed section 41(1) provides that the section applies to an offence only if a provision of The Criminal Code, or of another written law, expressly provides that it applies to the offence.

Proposed section 41(2) provides that if a body corporate is guilty of an offence to which section 41 applies, an officer of the body corporate is also guilty of the offence unless the officer took all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence by the body corporate.

Proposed section 41(3) provides that the officer has the onus of proving that the officer took all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence by the body corporate. It is intended that, if it is established that an officer took all reasonable steps, or there were no reasonable steps an officer could have taken, the officer should be acquitted.

Proposed section 41(4) prescribes the factors to which a court must have regard in determining whether things done or omitted to be done by the officer constitute reasonable steps. These are:

- a) what the officer knew, or ought to have known, about the commission of the offence by the body corporate; and
- b) whether the officer was in a position to influence the conduct of the body corporate in relation to the commission of the offence; and
- c) any other relevant matter.

Proposed section 42(1) provides that proposed Chapter 6 of The Criminal Code does not affect the liability of a body corporate for any offence. Where the Bill proposes to amend other Acts, provisions in those Acts which are in the same terms as section 42(1) are deleted on the basis that they will be redundant when the Directors' Liability Reform Act 2022 comes into operation.

Proposed section 42(2) provides that Chapter 6 of The Criminal Code does not affect the liability of an officer, or any other person, under Chapters II, LVII, LVIII and LIX of The Criminal Code. These chapters contain provisions relating to what is commonly referred to as accessory liability, and section 42(2) therefore provides that the inclusion of the new Chapter 6 will not affect the liability of officers of bodies corporate who are parties to offences committed by bodies corporate (as distinct from officers who are liable due to a failure to take all reasonable steps to prevent corporate offending).

Where the Bill deletes provisions in other Acts which impose accessorial liability, it is not intended that this deletion should affect the ability to prosecute officers of bodies corporate who have been parties to offences under those Acts. It is intended that such officers will be capable of being prosecuted under relevant provisions of Chapters II, LVII, LVIII and LIX of The Criminal Code.

Proposed section 42(3) provides that an officer of a body corporate may be charged with, and convicted of, an offence in accordance with section 39, 40 and 41 of The Criminal Code whether or not the body corporate is charged with or convicted of the offence. Where the Bill proposes to amend other Acts, provisions in those Acts which are in the same terms as section 42(3) are proposed to be deleted on the basis that they will be redundant when the Directors' Liability Reform Act 2022 comes into operation.

Proposed section 42(4)(a) provides that if an officer of a body corporate who is charged with an offence in accordance with section 39, 40 or 41 of The Criminal Code claims that the body corporate would have a defence if it were charged with the offence, the officer bears the onus of proving the defence. Proposed section 42(4)(b) provides that the standard of proof required is the standard that would apply to the body corporate in relation to the defence.

Proposed section 42(5) provides that section 42(4) does not limit any other defence available to the officer.

Proposed sections 43(1) and (2) provide that if section 39, 40 or 41 of The Criminal Code applies to an offence in respect of which penalties are only specified for bodies corporate, the maximum penalty for the offence if committed by an officer of the body corporate is one-fifth of the maximum penalty that could be imposed on the body corporate.

Proposed section 43(3) provides that section 43 does not limit the Sentencing Act 1995.

Clause 6 Section 740D inserted

This clause inserts a new section 740D into The Criminal Code.

Proposed new section 740D(1) provides for a statutory review of the operation and effectiveness of the amendments made to The Criminal Code by the Directors' Liability Reform Act 2022, to commence as soon as practicable after the fifth anniversary of the day on which section 5 of the Act comes into operation.

Proposed new section 740D(2) provides that the Minister, that is the Attorney General, must cause the report on the review to be tabled in Parliament as soon as practicable after it is prepared, but not later than 12 months after the fifth anniversary.

Part 3 – Amendments to other Acts

Part 3 of the Bill contains 69 divisions. Each of these divisions amends a Western Australian Act that currently imposes personal liability for corporate fault, or a mixture of personal liability for corporate fault and accessorial liability. This is achieved by either deleting the relevant provisions to remove these forms of liability from the Act or by replacing the relevant provisions with provisions that incorporate the standard provisions in sections 39 or 41 of The Criminal Code.

Section 39 of The Criminal Code applies 'Type 1' liability according to the Guidelines for applying the Council of Australian Government Principles in respect of personal liability for corporate fault. Section 40 applies 'Type 2' liability, and section 41 is 'Type 3' liability, in which the legal onus of proof is reversed, so that the officer must prove that they took all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence by the body corporate.

The Bill does not propose to impose Type 2 liability (section 40 of The Criminal Code) on any of the statutes amended in Part 3 but the provision is retained in the amendments to The Criminal Code in the event that this type of liability is needed in the future.
